“We think the Damar story is a pretty remarkable one and want more people to know it,” said Damar President & CEO Greg Johnson.

These professional communicators and their organizations are not often seen, but rather work behind the scenes pulling things together to allow Damar to present its best face forward.

The team has included highly respected members of the community such as Steve Shuel and Michelle Daley, David and Marilyn Shank and current counsel Michael Snyder.

“Once somebody understands why Damar exists and how successful they are at changing lives, they want to get engaged in the mission,” shared Michelle Daley.
